The evening is free for those who wish to catch a show, or enjoy our vibrant capital city by night.

Sunday: After breakfast this morning, the rest of the day is free in London, until we start our homeward journey at approximately 3.00pm .

LONDON & THE HOUSE OF PARLIAMENT & THE TOWER OF LONDON 29th to 30th August 2009—2 Days

We have put together two popular attractions to make the most of this short break in London. Our visit to the Houses of Parliament includes both the House of Commons and the House of Lords, and the one and a half hour guided tour explains in detail the workings of both houses, and the history of our great democracy. The Tower of London, originally built by William the Conqueror to protect and control the city of London lay within the old Roman City Walls. The Tower has been used as a fortress, a palace and a prison, and for centuries was the arsenal for arms and armour. Since it is one of the strongest fortresses in England, it has guarded and continues to guard the crown Jewels.
